- Food for orientation and new member meetings
- Transportation/gas money for Timebank staff
- Operational expenses including Timebank staff salaries, rent, and phone

We encourage organizations to be creative in funding their Timebank memberships. Possible ideas include holding a Timebank membership fund drive or asking a benefactor to purchase your organization's annual membership. Some organizations will pay their Timebank memberships with funds from their budget's volunteer, advertising, and/or professional fees line items. Others will pay with time dollars, or a combination of time dollars and cash.

Although membership dues are an important part of the Timebank's budget, no organization will be denied membership because of inability to pay. Any organization may apply to the Timebank Board of Directors to request a dues waiver. Waivers will be considered for the first six months of membership. We will work with your organization to find creative ways to maintain membership after the six month waiver period.
